Ishbel MacDonald to Wed Lord Arnold

When Miss Ishbel MacDonald (inset) parried women reporters during the ten days her father's party was in the United States, her tongue must have been in her rosy Scotch cheek. For the man she plans to marry was at her side. He is Lord Arnold, paymaster general, "unofficially attached" to the Prime Minister's party. Ishbel was telling the truth when she denied an "engagement" for the "understanding" between them will only become an engagement when formally announced, and Ishbel plans just such an announcement immediately on her return to England from Canada in the first week of November. This fact, and the story of the seven-year romance of a girl and a man who had to change his politics to win the object of his devotion, was learned from sources closest to the MacDonald family, and the facts are borne out by friends of Lord Arnold. Ishbel's intended husband is fifty-one. He is a wealthy stockbroker and Prime Minister MacDonald's devoted friend.

FALL ARGUMENTS GET UNDER WAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—INS—A four-hour flood of oratory was to be loosed today at the mixed jury sitting in the bribery trial of Albert B. Fall, secretary of interior during the Harding administration.

The closing 60 minutes of the day's session will find Frank J. Hogan, defense attorney, on his feet with the argument: the transaction was just a loan "from one old friend to another."

Tomorrow, the defense will close its plea.

Allen Chandler was taken to University hospital in Columbus in the Metzger and Fisher ambulance for observation.

Ferd M. Pickens and Dwight Faruolener, Kingston, attended the homecoming football game at Ohio Northern university, Ada, Saturday.

CLEMENCEAU NEAR DEATH

Grand Old Man of France Suffers Heart Attack—Specialist at Bedside

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Georges Clemenceau, the grand old man of France, today was fighting off the effects of a severe heart-attack.

The heart-attack, which occurred late last night, was of such a serious character that Dr. Laubry, a heart specialist, found it necessary to administer oxygen to the aged statesman five times during the night.

He was able to breathe by strained intermittent gasps and appeared to be suffocating.

Relatives remained at the aged French idol's bedside throughout the night.

News of "The Tiger's" illness was received gravely throughout France, owing to his advanced age. He celebrated his 88th birthday on Sept. 28, last.

A little more than a month ago, Clemenceau suffered a slight indisposition and was told to rest more than he did, but he scoffed at the doctors.

FORDS MEET PRESIDENT IN CHILLING RAIN

Party to Journey to Cincinnati
To Take Part in Celebration

DEARBORN, Mich., Oct. 21.—President Hoover came to Detroit today for a visit with Henry Ford and to join with the auto magnate and other national figures in honoring Thomas A. Edison on the 50th anniversary of his perfection of the incandescent light bulb.

A cold October drizzle was falling when the presidential special drew into the station, some miles from Detroit proper. The President and Mrs. Hoover were met by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford and Mr. Edison at the station. The Fords and the City of Detroit share the duties of being host to the distinguished gathering of notables here to honor the aged inventor.

The President and his party stepped from the luxury of a crack B. and O. special train, equipped with every modern adjunct of comfort, straight on to a conveyance of earlier days—a replica of an old train on the Grand Trunk system, with its antiquated string of cars drawn by a puffing "Iron Horse" belching smoke from its funny looking smoke stack.

Aboard this old museum piece, the Hoovers and their party proceeded to Smith's Creek station, the entrance to the early American village which Ford has spent much time and money erecting here to remind this motor age that it has traveled far since colonial days.

FORD'S HOBBY
The early American village is a hobby of Ford's and he has scored the attic and antique shops of the nation to make it historically accurate.

At the village, the President and Mrs. Hoover joined up with the notable company which Ford has gathered here to participate in the Edison ceremonies. These ceremonies will conclude tonight with Edison reenacting for the benefit of his friends the laboratory scenes incident to the perfection of the electric bulb. Mr. Hoover will speak the nation's pride and appreciation of the aged inventor. His address being broadcast on a national hook-up about 7:30 p. m.

After the visit to Ford's village, the President and Mrs. Hoover went to the Ford home, about a mile away, for a brief stop before proceeding on to Detroit proper, where Governor Fred W. Green and Mayor John C. Lodge formally welcomed the chief executive to the automobile capitol of the world.

From Detroit the President will journey southward tonight to Cincinnati and Louisville where tomorrow and Wednesday he will join in the rejoicing of the Ohio River folks over the fact that it is now possible to travel from Pittsburgh to Cairo, Ill., by boat.

The river that Mark Twain immortalized is now open to a traffic that he never dreamed of and the people of six states are commemorating the great event.

HOOVER'S FIRST TRIP
This is the first lengthy trip Mr. Hoover has made away from Washington during his presidency.

He has spent week ends at his fishing camp in Virginia and gone to Philadelphia and New York, but not ventured aboard.

Despite his 82 years, the East Orange, N. J., inventor, who is a guest with his wife at the Ford residence at Dearborn since his arrival here Saturday, braved the inclement weather with the Fords to greet the president.

ONLY SEVEN FINED DURING BIG EVENT

Pickaway-co and its Pumpkin Show goers are becoming more law-abiding each year, according to Mayor B. T. Hedges Monday.

During the show just ended only seven persons were fined for intoxication. Mayor Hedges says most of the persons were from out of the county.

In 1928 more than 20 were fined.

DR. HEFFNER HAS HEART ATTACK

Dr. G. W. Heffner was taken to the Mount Carmel hospital, Columbus early Monday after he had suffered a heart attack at his home.

His condition was said to be favorable.

169 Carried In Gigantic Plane

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Oct. 21.—The huge multiple motored Dornier plane "Dox" soared aloft today with more human beings aboard than have ever been carried by any type of aircraft before—169.

Of those aboard, 150 were passengers and the other 19 members of the crew.

The Dornier Company announced for the first time that the "Dox" contains a large salon, 21 feet long and 10 feet wide, an American bar, a smoking room and cabins with steel furniture for 72 passengers.

Two sisterships of the "Dox" are nearing completion, the company announced.

The huge ship which was constructed for trans-Atlantic air service between Germany and South America, remained in the air for an hour, circling over the great airport.

In spite of its tremendous weight, the Dornier-X made a perfect take-off and a perfect landing.

"The flight was a complete success," said Morris Dornier.

CLEMENCEAU NEAR DEATH

Grand Old Man of France Suffers Heart Attack—Specialist at Bedside

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Georges Clemenceau, the grand old man of France, today was fighting off the effects of a severe heart-attack.

The heart-attack, which occurred late last night, was of such a serious character that Dr. Laubry, a heart specialist, found it necessary to administer oxygen to the aged statesman five times during the night.

He was able to breathe by strained intermittent gasps and appeared to be suffocating.

Relatives remained at the aged French idol's bedside throughout the night.

News of "The Tiger's" illness was received gravely throughout France, owing to his advanced age. He celebrated his 88th birthday on Sept. 28, last.

A little more than a month ago, Clemenceau suffered a slight indisposition and was told to rest more than he did, but he scoffed at the doctors.

DRUG-CRAZED MEN ESCAPE

SPADRA, CAL., Oct. 21.—(INS)—Fifteen drug-crazed inmates of the state narcotic hospital were roaming the terrorized countryside today following a mad break late last night, the second in three months.

Two of the addicts were recaptured by guards. The addicts slugged and trampled their keepers and fled yelling crazily into the night.

Posses of wardens and deputy sheriffs were pursuing the fleeing men.

PILOT LEAPS AND SAVES THE MAIL

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 21.—Pilot Harry Sievers flying the mail from Pittsburgh to Cleveland risked his life but saved the mail this morning when he leaped from his plane at an altitude of 1,000 feet.

Sievers felt the motor go dead, grasped the heavy mail bag under his arm and leaped into the darkness, landing safely when his parachute opened and dropped him to earth near the wreckage of his burning plane.

FORDS MEET PRESIDENT IN CHILLING RAIN

Party to Journey to Cincinnati To Take Part In Celebration

DEARBORN, Mich., Oct. 21.—President Hoover came to Detroit today for a visit with Henry Ford and to join with the auto magnate and other national figures in honoring Thomas A. Edison on the 50th anniversary of his perfection of the incandescent light bulb.

A cold October drizzle was falling when the presidential special drew into the station, some miles from Detroit proper. The President and Mrs. Hoover were met by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford and Mr. Edison at the station. The Fords and the City of Detroit share the duties of being host to the distinguished gathering of notables here to honor the aged inventor.

The President and his party stepped from the luxury of a crack B. and O. special train, equipped with every modern adjunct of comfort, straight on to a conveyance of earlier days—a replica of an old train on the Grand Trunk system, with its antiquated string of cars drawn by a puffing "Iron Horse" belching smoke from its funny looking smoke stack.

Aboard this old museum piece, the Hoovers and their party proceeded to Smith's Creek station, the entrance to the early American village which Ford has spent much time and money erecting here to remind this motor age that it has traveled far since colonial days.

FORD'S HOBBY
The early American village is a hobby of Ford's and he has scored the attics and antique shops of the nation to make it historically accurate.

At the village, the President and Mrs. Hoover joined up with the notable company which Ford has gathered here to participate in the Edison ceremonies. These ceremonies will conclude tonight with Edison reenacting for the benefit of his friends the laboratory scenes incident to the perfection of the electric bulb. Mr. Hoover will speak the nation's pride and appreciation of the aged inventor.

His address being broadcast on a national hook-up about 7:30 p. m. After the visit to Ford's village, the President and Mrs. Hoover went to the Ford home, about a mile away, for a brief stop before proceeding on to Detroit proper, where Governor Fred W. Green and Mayor John C. Lodge formally welcomed the chief executive to the automobile capitol of the world.

From Detroit the President will journey southward tonight to Cincinnati and Louisville where tomorrow and Wednesday he will join in the rejoicing of the Ohio River folks over the fact that it is now possible to travel from Pittsburgh to Cairo, Ill., by boat.

The river that Mark Twain immortalized is now open to a traffic that he never dreamed of and the people of six states are commemorating the great event.

HOOVER'S FIRST TRIP
This is the first lengthy trip Mr. Hoover has made away from Washington during his presidency. He has spent week ends at his fishing camp in Virginia and gone to Philadelphia and New York, but not ventured abroad.

Despite his 82 years, the East Orange, N. J., inventor, who is a guest with his wife at the Ford residence at Dearborn since his arrival here Saturday, braved the inclement weather with the Fords to greet the president.

ONLY SEVEN FINED DURING BIG EVENT

Pickaway-co and its Pumpkin Show goers are becoming more law-abiding each year, according to Mayor B. T. Hedges Monday.

During the show just ended only seven persons were fined for intoxication. Mayor Hedges says most of the persons were from out of the county.

In 1928 more than 20 were fined.

DR. HEFFNER HAS HEART ATTACK

Dr. G. W. Heffner was taken to the Mount Carmel hospital, Columbus early Monday after he suffered a heart attack at his home.

His condition was said to be favorable.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 21—The day is done, but the memories linger on—in the minds of the odd 100,000 Ohio football fans who watched their various and sundry colleges disport themselves on the ancient and honorable gridiron Saturday.

Two ties were drawn from the moleskin fishpond and in most cases, except two, to be exact, the contests ended as the scribe forecasted.

A highly touted and somewhat over-confident Miami university team dedicated Selby Field of Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware by allowing the Battling Bishops to surge through it for a 20-to-12 win. The Big Red team made both of its scores in the second half and for a time it looked like it would snatch a victory from defeat.

Spinago's Formula developed After Experiments Lasting Over Long Period of Time

It is not strange that health, that most valuable of possessions follows wherever Spinago goes. And here is the reason. This new tonic is built upon a practical formula. Its manufacturers have not just thrown together a conglomeration of ingredients and called the result a medicine. They have spent years working out a combination of nature's own products and blending them together in such a way as to produce a well balanced tonic every component of which has a definite function to perform in driving away misery and suffering from the system and restoring health. Spinach in concentrated form, burdock, cascara, poke root, gentian, sarsaparilla and many other herb roots and barks of well known medicinal value all go together to produce this tonic of tonics. And based upon such a formula is it any wonder that stomach trouble, indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuritis, liver, kidney and bowel complaints disappear before its efficient action? Is it surprising that impure blood is purified and awakened, that jaded appetites are revived, and that worn-out bodies are made new again by its power?

"Spinago drove from me pain and misery caused by disordered bowels, kidneys and liver. My system had for a long time been clogged up by poisonous waste materials which caused me to experience a tired worn-out feeling practically all the time. This medicine did what countless others had failed to do. It cleared my system and kept it cleared. I drove away the worn-down feeling, gave me new energy and life and made me feel fit for the first time in years. My liver, bowels and kidneys are in perfect working order; my appetite is returned and I can do a hard day's work without exhaustion. I have Spinago to thank for this change in me. It is truly a wonderful medicine."

You sufferers who have given up hope of regaining health, you who have tried one remedy after another in vain, give Spinago a chance. That is all it asks.

China, Land of Temples, Mandarins and Rickshas, Provides Travel Thrills for Voyagers Who Are Seeking the Unusual

China, that vast empire of the Far East, with its peculiar customs and traditions, has a subtle appeal for the Occidental mind, and travelers are including it in their itineraries whenever possible. There is Hong Kong, a British Crown Colony, the harbor of which can challenge any in the world for size and grandeur. Here the jaded traveler in search of new worlds to conquer sees Chinese junk, queer-looking craft with eyes in their bows so that they can see to go; sampans with elated sails, and merchantmen representing almost every country in the world. Hong Kong is one of the highlights of the forthcoming world cruise of the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Australia," which leaves New York Dec. 2, 1929, for a globe-girdling voyage of 137 days. It is also the Oriental terminus of the "White Empress of the Pacific."

Shanghai, on the Whangpoo River, another fascinating Chinese city, is a place of contrasts—magnificent buildings, hotels and theatres—and narrow, crooked streets containing rabbit-warren bazaar where one can procure trinkets and Oriental novelties. Shanghai is the most cosmopolitan city in the world. It is now a thriving metropolis of 2,000,000 inhabitants, but it was a mere fishing village when the Europeans arrived in 1843. The foreign settlement has its own government and policemen—burly, red-turbaned Sikhs in the British Concession, wiry little Indo-Chinese with peculiar hats in the French. The Empress of Australia goes to China, waungtao, whence her passengers journey to Peking—four cities in one. Peking is magnificent. The Summer Palaces, the Forbidden City, the Temple of Confucius, the Temple of Heaven and other Oriental marvels never fail to interest the visitor. A train from Peking brings the traveler to the Great Wall of China, built centuries ago to keep out invading hordes.

THEATRES

"COLLEGE LOVE"

A fast moving comedy drama of college life is heralded for showing at the Grand Theatre Monday and Tuesday when "College Love," a feature picture made by the same cast as Universal's popular "College Girl," short comedies, will be the principal attraction.

"College Love" may be considered the graduating opus of this popular group of screen players. It is the last college picture in which they will be seen together. Featuring George Lewis with such sterling support as Dorothy Gail, Eddie Phillips, Churchill Ross, Hayden Stevenson and Summer Getchell, the protoplasm was directed by Nat Ross under the supervision of Carl Laemmle Jr., from a story by Leonard Fields.

"MOTHER'S BOY"

Osgood Perkins, who is seen as the old music master of the Pathé dialogue production, "Mother's Boy," which will be seen and heard at the Met theatre on Monday and Tuesday, is not only a capable actor, but a violinist of no mean ability. He displays his skill in several sequences in the picture and the reproduction of his violin playing is faultless.

The story of "Mother's Boy" deals with the fortunes of Tommy O'Day, a delicatessen delivery boy with a beautiful voice who works his way to fame. Morton Downey, a player of magnetism and force, is starred in this role. The cast is made up almost exclusively of stage players of prominence. Among them are John T. Doyle, Beryl Mercer, Barbara Bennett, Bryan Donlevy, Lorna Baker, Leslie Stowe and Helen Chandler who plays opposite Mr. Downey. The picture was finely directed by Bradley Barker under the supervision of Robert T. Kent, producer. James Seymour supervised the dialogue.

"YOUNG NOWHERES"

One of the loveliest things to be heard in "Young Nowheres," the First National and Vitaphone production starring Richard Barthelmess which is at the Cliftona theatre on Monday and Tuesday, is a Christmas carol sung by an unseen church choir.

This feature of a "Young Nowheres" comes in the hospital sequence when Barthelmess in the role of Binky, the wasteful elevator boy, visits his sweetheart (played by Marion Nixon), who lies ill with pneumonia. It is a tender unforgettable scene, and as the boy sits looking at his little sweetheart, the choir breaks into the carol with the throaty notes of a pipe organ in the background.

Indians Outstrip Deer

in Fleetness of Foot

The greatest runners in the world are the Tarahumara Indians, who have been known to continue 170 miles without stopping. A few years ago Thomas Zahiro and Leoncio San Miguel, members of this tribe, did a distance of 62½ miles on the highway from Panchna to Mexico City in 9 hours and 37 minutes without any evidence of fatigue. Translated, "Lara" means "is foot runner." They are said to be insensible to heat and cold, using the same blankets summer and winter. They love to tell how their forefathers were the couriers of the Aztec monarchs. To day the Mexicans employ them to run wild horses into the corals. The Tarahumara prove the expression poets love to use, "fleet as a deer," to be true, for when they are on the chase they outstrip their antlered prey.

Running is not confined to the men of this tribe; the women enter into it with the same zest. As with the Zuni, there is much preparation for the sporting event. The priests practice many kinds of sorcery; human bones are hidden along the course, and woe to the runner whose foot wears them out! Each man taking part is rubbed down by the "shaman," or priest, to protect him against evil influences.

Whale "Spouting"

Whales do not spout water. However, they blow air which often contains dust from the nostrils or from the wet surface of their bodies. This produces a height of from six to eight feet.

Flying Clouds Show Promise of Successful Season with Several New Men

Grant's Flying Cloud basketball team will hold a strenuous practice session Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. on the C A C floor with all members of the squad expected to be present.

Manager Joe Gilt is busy lining up a number of games, and expects to have an impressive array of contests on the schedule before the season gets under way, immediately after Thanksgiving.

The addition of two new men is expected to give the Clouds more offensive strength than they had a year ago when their record was very good.

Joe Barnes, a tall boy, who is either unusually lucky or possesses a keen shooting eye, is slated for one forward job with Dutch Weller at the other.

Howard White, a rangy lad, with plenty of experience with the Chillicothe high school five will probably play center.

A scramble is expected for the guard positions with several good boys ready to step into the lineup.

Notice to the public

SUPPOSE you are today paying 50c a tube for your tooth paste (and there are many very good dentifrices selling today at that price).

Suppose, like most people, you buy about twelve tubes during a year. Now if you knew that you could buy as good a dentifrice as can be made and still save each year the price of 25 loaves of bread or 60 bars of soap or 40 pounds of sugar or a box of fine cigars—could you conscientiously fail to take advantage of such an opportunity?

That is exactly what you do when you buy Listerine Tooth Paste at 25c for a large tube. Figure it out for yourself.

Senator William E. Borah (R) Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, "had been asked" to be one of the delegation Stimson disclosed. "but unfortunately had found it impossible to accept."

Stimson said he made the announcement "on behalf of President Hoover" and added "no further names" of those who will comprise the delegation "will be made just yet."

Passion for Education

Mark of Truly Great

In a biography of George Washington it is narrated that he was reluctant to visit France at the end of his presidential term, because he could not speak French. Which is only another tribute to his greatness and wisdom.

What wise man does not regret the lack of education? There is so much to learn in life and so brief a time in which to learn it! To grasp the life and the significance of those ancient lands from which our civilization and all our religions are derived would require a couple of centuries at least. And then we would only be in the A B C class of modern study.

The more one really learns, the more one wants to learn. All who have tasted of education must regret their lack of complete possession of it.

The Sinai tablets discovered seven or eight years ago near the base of Mount Sinai have been only partially deciphered. They appear to be the complaint of Semite 11,000 years brought to work in the mines in that locality and addressed to the Goddess Hathor.

Needless Suffering

The next time a headache makes you stay at home—

Or some other ache or pain prevents your keeping an engagement—

Remember Bayer Aspirin! For there is scarcely any pain it cannot relieve, and relieve promptly.

These tablets give real relief, or millions would not continue to take them. They are quite harmless, or the medical profession would not constantly prescribe them.

Don't be a martyr to unnecessary pain. To colds that might easily be checked; to neuritis; neuralgia; to those pains peculiar to women; or any suffering for which Bayer Aspirin is such an effective antidote.

For your own protection, use the genuine. Bayer is safe. It never depresses the heart, so use it as often as needed, but the cause of any pain can't be treated only by a doctor.

That story reached Miami's ears and Miami believed, apparently. The writer was among those who swallowed the hook, line and sinker. If nine of Coach Gauthier's men were on the injured list, they surely recovered with surprising speed.

Miami faces a stiff game next week when it bows as host to Wittenberg. Ohio Wesleyan goes to Cleveland to play Western Reserve and there should be little doubt of that issue, meaning that the Delaware aggregation should storm through Western Reserve like a tidal wave.

Western Reserve fell prey to Akron when the Zippers downed the Cleveland team for a 14-to-7 score. It just couldn't be helped. The University of Akron has a powerful gridiron machine and if anyone expected the game to end differently, he is awarded the bleacher seat on the one-yard line during the next rainy day.

Akron and Miami had not been scored upon until Saturday, but that's just a memory now.

STUDENT PRINCE LOSE
Speaking of rainy days, it was just that for the Student Princes of Heidelberg when they journeyed to Springfield to scuffle with Wittenberg. The Lutherans amassed 13 points while the visitors were sent home with one of those disgraceful defeats. Heidelberg has a nice band, and its uniforms are stunning, a co-ed said.

A Boston college team, which has not been defeated since 1927, added another laurel to its crown by taking an easy victory from the Dayton Flyers, 23 to 7. The Gem City gridders, however, didn't really hope to emerge victorious from such an experience, and the fact that they scored on the eastern 11, gives them a moral victory though such things don't count for much when the tallies are being counted at the end of the season.

WOOSTER-MOUNT TIE
The two ties played resulted from the Cincinnati-Denison and Wooster-Mt. Union tilts. Both ended by a 6-to-6 score. Cincinnati and Denison are the underdogs on the "Big Six" conference, and all that the tie denotes is that they are about of the same caliber. To Wooster, however, goes a moral victory. Mt. Union should have defeated the Bolesmen, but the best it could do was to let things rest evenly.

The Otterbein-Ohio Northern mix-up should be given a separate paragraph. Ohio Northern looked good to most dopesters and it was picked as a favorite. The Westernville Eleven went to Ada rated as the under-dog but it returned home leaving the Polar Bears with a decided impression that it was a vicious bull canine. The score was 13 to 12.

And, oh yes, Ohio State beat Michigan, 7 to 0.

Old Custom of Telling Bees of Owner's Death

A reader in the United States sends me a cutting from an American newspaper telling how the late Dr. Charles James, chemist and mineralogist, owned 14 hives of bees, and how after his death one swarm disappeared and was found buzzing about the flowers on his grave more than two miles away. Peter Grime writes, in the London Post.

Apparently, we are told, the bees had not been informed of his death in accordance with the ancient custom, which is still religiously fulfilled in country places.

I am afraid I cannot enlighten my correspondent, who passes on to me the query of the Journal in question: "Who first thought of telling the bees of the death of their master?"

As far as history carries us back we have some record of the keeping of bees, and the custom of telling the bees is very likely almost as old as bee-keeping. It has all the appearance of a rite which originated in very early times, and the fact that it still survives is a touching proof that we still cling, in some things at least, to the wisdom—or folly—of our ancestors.

Formal Adjournment
"Sine die" literally means "without day." It is used in the legal sense to mean "without a day appointed on which to meet again." When congress adjourns sine die it means that no date has been set on which to convene, the session being ended. The phrase is pronounced "sigh-nee-die-ee."

China, Land of Temples, Mandarins and Rickshas, Provides Travel Thrills for Voyagers Who Are Seeking the Unusual

MANCHURIAN LAOS, AT GREAT WALL

China, that vast empire of the Far East, with its peculiar customs and traditions, has a subtle appeal for the Occidental mind, and travelers are including it in their itineraries whenever possible. There is Hong Kong, a British Crown Colony, the harbor of which can challenge any in the world for size and grandeur. Here the jaded traveler in search of new worlds to conquer sees Chinese junks, queer-looking craft with eyes in their bows, so that they can see to go; sampans with slatted sails, and merchantmen representing almost every country in the world. Hong Kong is one of the highlights of the forthcoming world cruise of the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Australia," which leaves New York Dec. 2, 1929, for a globe-girdling voyage of 137 days. It is also the Oriental terminus of the "White Empresses of the Pacific."

Shanghai, on the Whangpoo River, another fascinating Chinese city, is a place of contrasts—magnificent buildings, hotels and theatres—and narrow, crooked streets containing rabbit-warren bazaars where one can procure trinkets and Oriental novelties. Shanghai is the most cosmopolitan city in the world. It is now a thriving metropolis of 2,000,000 inhabitants, but it was a mere fishing village when the Europeans arrived in 1843. The foreign settlement has its own government and policemen—burly, red-turbaned Sikhs in the British Concession, wiry little Indo-Chinamen with peculiar hats in the French. The Empress of Australia goes to Chinwangtao, whence her passengers journey to Peking—four cities in one. Peking is magnificent. The Summer Palaces, the Forbidden City, the Temple of Confucius, the Temple of Heaven and other Oriental marvels never fail to interest the visitor. A train from Peking brings the traveler to the Great Wall of China, built centuries ago to keep out invading

"COLLEGE LOVE"

A fast moving comedy drama of college life is heralded for showing at the Grand Centre Monday and Tuesday when "College Love" a feature picture made by the same cast as Universal's popular "Collegian" short comedies, will be the principal attraction. "College Love" may be considered the graduating opus of this popular group of screen players. It is the last college picture in which they will be seen together. Featuring George Lewis with such sterling support as Dorothy Gulliver, Eddie Phillips, Churchill Ross Hayden Stevenson and Summer Getchell, the protolay was directed by Nat Ross under the supervision of Carl Laemmle Jr., from a story by Leonard Fields.

"MOTHER'S BOY"

Osgood Perkins, who is seen as the old music master of the Pathe dialogue production, "Mother's Boy," which will be seen and heard at the Met theater on Monday and Tuesday, is not only a capable actor, but a violinist of no mean ability. He displays his skill in several sequences in the picture and the reproduction of his violin playing is faultless.

The story of "Mother's Boy" deals with the fortunes of Tommy O'Day, a delicatessen delivery boy with a beautiful voice who works his way to fame. Morton Downey, a player of magnetism and force, is starred in this role. The cast is made up almost exclusively of stage players of prominence. Among them are John T. Doyle, Beryl Mercer, Barbara Bennett, Bryan Donlevy, Lorin Baker, Leslie Stowe and Helen Chandler who plays opposite Mr. Downey. The picture was finely directed by Bradley Barker under the supervision of Robert T. Kent, producer. James Seymour supervised the dialogue.

"YOUNG NOWHERES"

One of the loveliest things to be heard in "Young Nowheres," the First National and Vitaphone production starring Richard Barthelmess which is at the Cliftona theatre on Monday and Tuesday, is a Christmas carol sung by an unseen church choir.

This feature of a "Young Nowheres" comes in the hospital sequence when Barthelmess in the role of Binky, the wistful elevator boy, visits his sweetheart, (played by Marion Nixon), who lies ill with pneumonia. It is a tender unforgettable scene, and as the boy sits looking at his little sweetheart, the choir breaks into the carol with the throaty notes of a pipe organ in the background.

Indians Outstrip Deer in Fleetness of Foot

The greatest runners in the world are the Tarahumara Indians, who have been known to continue 170 miles without stopping. A few years ago Thomas Zaffro and Leonelo San Miguel, members of this tribe, did a distance of 62½ miles on the highway from Pancho to Mexico City in 9 hours and 37 minutes. Translated, "Tarahumara" is foot runners. They are said to be insensible to heat and cold, using the same blankets summer and winter. They love to tell how their forefathers were the couriers of the Aztec monarchs. Today the Mexicans employ them to run wild horses into the corrals. The Tarahumara prove the expression poets love to use, "fleet as a deer," to be true, for when they are on the chase they outstrip their antlered prey.

Running is not confined to the men of this tribe, the women enter into it with the same zest. As with the Zuni, there is much preparation for the sporting event. The priests practice many kinds of sorcery; human bones are hidden along the course, and woe to the runner whose foot unearths one! Each man taking part is rubbed down by the "shaman," or priest, to protect him against evil influences.

Flying Clouds Show Promise of Successful Season with Several New Men

Grant's Flying Cloud basketball team will hold a strenuous practice session Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. on the C. A. C. floor with all members of the squad expected to be present.

Manager Joe Glitt is busy lining up a number of games, and expects to have an impressive array of contests on the schedule before the season gets under way, immediately after Thanksgiving.

The addition of two new men is expected to give the Clouds more offensive strength than they had a year ago when their record was very good.

Joe Barnes, a tall boy, who is either unusually lucky or possesses a keen shooting eye, is slated for one forward job with Dutch Weller at the other.

Howard White, a rangy lad, with plenty of experience with the Chillicothe high school five will probably play center.

A scramble is expected for the guard positions with several good boys ready to step into the lineup.

Notice to the public

SUPPOSE you are today paying 50c a tube for your tooth paste (and there are many very good dentifrices selling today at that price).

Suppose, like most people, you buy about twelve tubes during a year. Now if you knew that you could buy as good a dentifrice as can be made and still save each year the price of 25 loaves of bread or 60 bars of soap or 40 pounds of sugar or a box of fine cigars—could you conscientiously fail to take advantage of such an opportunity?

That is exactly what you do when you buy Listerine Tooth Paste at 25c for a large tube. Figure it out for yourself.

Passion for Education Mark of Truly Great

In a biography of George Washington it is narrated that he was reluctant to visit France at the end of his presidential term, because he could not speak French. Which is only another tribute to his greatness and wisdom.

What wise man does not regret the lack of education? There is so much to learn in life and so brief a time in which to learn it! To grasp the life and literature of those ancient lands from which our civilization and all our religions are derived would require a couple of centuries at least. And even we would only be in the A B C class of modern study.

The more one really learns, the more one wants to learn. All who have tasted of education must regret their lack of complete possession of it.

U. S. CROP YIELD BELOW AVERAGE

Reports Show 10 Per Cent Drop; Ohio is only 2.5 Per Cent Short

While this year's total crop yield in the United States probably will run about 6 per cent below the 10-year average, the Ohio yield will be only 2.5 per cent short. This is indicated in estimates from the United States Department of Agriculture on prospects in this state and in the United States as a whole, based on reports for Oct. 1.

Particularly on potatoes the Ohio farmer has an advantage over the rest of the country. Ohio's potato crop this year is estimated at about 11,495,000 bushels, which is above the average for the last 10 years. The national crop of about 350 million bushels is one of the smallest in 10 years. This should mean good prices for Ohio potatoes this fall.

CORN BELOW AVERAGE

Ohio's corn production is estimated at 125 million bushels, this year as against an average of 137 million bushels. But the rest of the country is as badly off, and prices on corn should be good. Hay yields in Ohio this year have averaged 1.6 tons to the acre instead of the average 1.4 tons, and the total crop for the state will be about 4,900,000 tons as against an average of 4,300,000 tons.

When it comes to apples however, Ohio growers have suffered more than the growers in other states. This year's national crop is estimated at about 140 million bushels, 43 million bushels below the average. Ohio's crop will run to only about 2,800,000 bushels, as compared with an average of 3,500,000 bushels.

Mrs. Charles Carpenter and Mr. Charles Pluess of Millington, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Sherman and Mrs. Agnes Carpenter of Columbus were Wednesday guests of Mrs. N. E. Thomas of N. Court-st. 500,000 bushels.

ONE KILLED, 4 HURT IN WRECK

Columbus Residents Enroute to Pumpkin Show Victims Of Collision

Funeral services for Mrs. Madge Thompson, 27, 39 Hayden-ave., Columbus, who was instantly killed at 3:30 p. m. Saturday in a head-on automobile collision near Shadysville, while she, with her husband, a son, and two other women were enroute to the Circleville Pumpkin Show, will be held in Columbus, Tuesday.

Her husband, Paul Thompson, was driving his car south when it collided with the car driven by George Mapinet, 654 S. High-st., Columbus.

Thompson and an 11-month-old son were severely cut and bruised and were taken to the Mercy hospital and later released. Mrs. Dora Newsom, 51, and her niece, Miss Elizabeth Newsom, 16, suffered serious cuts and bruises, and were also taken to the hospital. Mrs. Newsom is in a critical condition with undetermined internal injuries, while her niece has a broken jaw, a broken arm, and possible internal injuries.

Although both cars were completely demolished, Mapinet escaped with only minor bruises.

THREE SHOT IN POLICE FIGHT

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 21.—(IN S)—A bullet from the gun of Motorcycle Policeman Albert Shane ended the cavorting of Wesley Williams, 36, a constable who held authorities at bay for more than an hour with a revolver and two shotguns.

The fracas started when Williams imbibed in too much "mountain dew" and caused a disturbance which necessitated his arrest. But when Patrolman Bierman came to do the arresting in the name of the law, a fight ensued during which Williams fled.

He was found at his residence where he barricaded himself in the house and wounded two officers before he was finally taken. His condition is reported as serious at a local hospital today.

Police Chief Strider, 64, and Patrolman John Bierman, 39, of the Mariemont police force were the policemen wounded in the battle. Both will recover.

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 21.—A holiday flight through the clear autumn skies over the Schuylkill river had ended fatally today for a father and his son. Their plane nose-dived from a height of 300 feet near Limerick a few miles south of here, horribly mangled both men. The father died almost instantly. The son died enroute to a Philadelphia hospital.

The dead: Luther M. Bush, 57, President of the Bush Planing mill at Royersford and Guy Franklin Bush, 21.

EXPECT MOWERY TO RESIGN AS CLERK

Following a ruling handed down by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman Monday to County Prosecutor Emmitt L. Crist, it is expected that Charles Mowery, Pickaway-twp, will resign his position as clerk of Pickaway-twp.

Mowery at present is a state highway inspector, and also holds the office of township clerk. Bettman rules that a state highway inspector, being in the classified civil service of the state, cannot legally hold the position of township clerk at the same time.

The attorney general pointed out that the position of township clerk is both an elective and a political office. It has been held that persons in the classified civil service cannot be candidates of election to public office without resigning their positions in the classified service.

LAKESIDE FIRE LOSS $100,000

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 21.—A section of the winter colony at Lakeside, near here, was a blackened, water-soaked pile of ruins today as the result of an early morning blaze yesterday which destroyed 27 cottages and did damage in excess of $100,000.

The conflagration, said to have started from an overheated oil stove in the cottage of Scottie Lawson, was fanned by a breeze and it spread rapidly.

One cottage was dynamited to check the spreading flames. The Lakeside M. E. church was damaged by the blaze.

PANTAGES TO GO ON STAND TODAY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—The highlight of Alexander Pantages' trial on a charge of criminally assaulting 17-year-old Eunice Pringle was expected today as defense attorneys prepared to place the wealthy theatrical magnate on the stand.

Pantages is expected to give his own version of what took place in his room in his theater.

According to defense lawyers, the 54-year-old millionaire will corroborate their contention that Pantages was the victim of a "frame-up."

GANGSTER SLAIN; WOMAN IS CAUSE

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 21.—Arnold Reno, 32, alleged gangster and convicted bootlegger, was shot and killed in a purported speakeasy here early today as the result, police say, of his friendly relations with another man's wife.

The woman has been arrested but her name was not disclosed. Her husband is reported to have fled.

Reno was said to have been one of the liquor barons here. He had an extensive police record.

Sleepy, but Not Hungry

C. I. J. was spending the day with relatives, and had been warned by mother not to ask for anything to eat between meals. He did as he was told very satisfactorily until late in the afternoon, when he yielded to an inward desire for a "handout."

"Uncle," said the boy, "I always get sleepy when I am hungry."

"Well," said the uncle, "maybe the child is hungry."

"Are you hungry?" asked uncle.

"No," said the little fellow, "but I am terribly sleepy."

DIVORCEE DEAD, ADMIRER IS HELD

Body of Brokers Former Wife Found at Fashionable Boat Club

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—A coroner's inquest scheduled for tomorrow will likely determine whether Mrs. Aurelia Fisher Dreyfus, pretty 29-year-old divorcee, fell to her death from the porch of the fashionable Potomac Boat Club here, or was the victim of a murder.

One man, said by the police to be the last to see Mrs. Dreyfus alive is being held for investigation.

Mrs. Dreyfus, divorced wife of Herbert Dreyfus, said to be a prominent New York broker and wartime dollar-a-year man with the U. S. shipping board here, either fell or was pushed from the second floor of the boat club sometime Saturday night. Her body was found on the float.

The man the police are holding, Edmund J. McBrien, also said to be a New York broker, was the co-respondent named by Dreyfus when he brought a suit against his wartime bride for divorce in New York in 1924.

When Mrs. Dreyfus' body was found her father, Carl Fisher, of this city, reported to the police that jewelry valued at $5,000 was missing.

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Five Italian planes are now being groomed for a trip to the United States, and General Balbo will in all probability be a passenger in one of them.

AIR AMPLANCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(INS)—

The aerial ambulance became a reality today when officials of the Colonial flying service and the Scully Walton Ambulance Co., announced that they would fly hospital planes from New York to "any point having an adequate landing field."

PLANE NOSE-DIVES TWO ARE KILLED

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 21.—A holiday flight through the "dark autumn skies over the Schuylkill river had ended fatally today for a father and his son. Their plane nose-dived from a height of 300 feet near Limerick a few miles south of here, horribly mangle both men. The father died almost instantly. The son died enroute to a Philadelphia hospital.

The dead: Luther M. Bush, 57, President of the Bush Planing mill at Royersford and Guy Franklin Bush, 21.

EXPECT MOWERY TO RESIGN AS CLERK

Following a ruling handed down by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman Monday to County Prosecutor Emmitt L. Crist, it is expected that Charles Mowery, Pickaway-twp., will resign his position as clerk of Pickaway-twp.

Mowery at present is a state highway inspector, and also holds the office of township clerk. Bettman rules that a state highway inspector, being in the classified civil service of the state, cannot legally hold the position of township clerk at the same time.

The attorney general pointed out that the position of township clerk is both an elective and a political office. It has been held that persons in the classified civil service cannot be candidates of election to public office without resigning their positions in the classified service.

LAKESIDE FIRE LOSS $100,000

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 21.—A section of the winter colony at Lakeside, near here, was a blackened, water-soaked pile of ruins today as the result of an early morning blaze yesterday which destroyed 27 cottages and did damage in excess of $100,000.

The conflagration, said to have started from an overheated oil stove in the cottage of Scottie Lawson, was fanned by a breeze and it spread rapidly.

One cottage was dynamited to check the spreading flames. The Lakeside M. E. church was damaged by the blaze.

PANTAGES TO GO ON STAND TODAY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—The highlight of Alexander Pantages' trial on a charge of criminally assaulting 17-year-old Eunice Pringle was expected today as defense attorneys prepared to place the wealthy theatrical magnate on the stand.

Pantages is expected to give his own version of what took place in his room in his theater.

According to defense lawyers, the 54-year-old millionaire will corroborate their contention that Pantages was the victim of a "frame-up."

GANGSTER SLAIN; WOMAN IS CAUSE

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 21.—Arnold Reno, 32, alleged gangster and convicted bootlegger, was shot and killed in a purported speakeasy here early today as the result, police say, of his friendly relations with another man's wife.

The woman has been arrested but her name was not disclosed. Her husband is reported to have fled.

Reno was said to have been one of the liquor barons here. He had an extensive police record.

Sleepy, but Not Hungry

C. I. J. was spending the day with relatives, and had been warned by mother not to ask for anything to eat between meals. He did as he was told very satisfactorily until late in the afternoon, when he yielded to an inward desire for a "handout."

"Uncle," said the boy, "I always get sleepy when I am hungry."

"Well," said the uncle, "maybe the child is hungry."

"Are you hungry?" asked uncle. "No," said the little fellow, "but I am terribly sleepy."

DIVORCEE DEAD, ADMIRER IS HELD

Body of Brokers Former Wife Found at Fashionable Boat Club

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—A coroner's inquest scheduled for tomorrow will likely determine whether Mrs. Aurelia Fisher Dreyfus, pretty 29-year-old divorcee, fell to her death from the porch of the fashionable Potomac Boat Club here, or was the victim of a murder.

One man, said by the police to be the last to see Mrs. Dreyfus alive is being held for investigation.

Mrs. Dreyfus, divorced wife of Herbert Dreyfus, said to be a prominent New York broker and wartime dollar-a-year man with the U. S. chipping board here, either fell or was pushed from the second floor of the boat club sometime Saturday night. Her body was found on the float.

The man the police are holding, Edmund J. McBrien, also said to be a New York broker, was the co-respondent named by Dreyfus when he brought a suit against his wartime bride for divorce in New York in 1924.

When Mrs. Dreyfus' body was found her father, Carl Fisher, of this city, reported to the police that jewelry valued at nearly $5,000 was missing.

Sore Throat? Don't Gargle

This Doctor's Prescription Gives Quicker, Better Relief

Don't suffer the pain and discomfort of sore throat. Use a doctor's prescription called Thoxine guaranteed to relieve with the very first swallow. Gargles and salves are too slow and if they do relieve, it is usually only temporary.

Thoxine has a double action—it relieves the soreness and goes direct to the internal cause. It contains no harmful drugs and is safe and pleasant for the whole family. There is nothing better to stop coughing due to irritated throats. Just ask for Thoxine, put up ready for use in 35c., 60c., and $1.00 bottles. Money back if not relieved. Sold by Hamilton & Ryan.

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on it.

DAREDEVIL PEDESTRIANS

Shades of Jonathan Swift! Two centuries after the immortal English satirist penned his celebrated "Modest Proposal" he has in a London magistrate a worthy imitator.

Swift's "Modest Proposal" suggested that the prevailing food shortage in Ireland would be immeasurably relieved if babies were fattened for human consumption. With a wealth of argument he demonstrated the immense advantages, hygienic, social and economic, which would result from a cannibalistic practice.

The magistrate's modest proposal is that "the pedestrian who is injured should be fined" and "if he is killed, the cost of any inquiry should be paid out of his goods."

He was not defending the careless or reckless motorist nor placing full responsibility for traffic accidents upon the pedestrian. His point is that the average walker places too much confidence in and too much responsibility on the man at the wheel. The attitude of "hit me if you dare" and "the car must stop for me" sends many pedestrians to the hospital or morgue.

When the pedestrian is brought to realize that in the last resort he is responsible, in fact if not in law, for his own safety there can be no doubt that the number of traffic accidents will drop. And since nearly every pedestrian has a dual personality, as pedestrian and as motorist, he might not in the long run be at a disadvantage.

Feign Death to Escape

Its Actual Visitation

Nature has provided the majority of animals with some means of self preservation. The bold overcome the enemy by fighting "tooth and claw"; the timid escape by rapid flight. Some creatures take shelter behind a plating of armor; others merely rely upon their protective coloration. Some inject deadly poisons; others emit nauseating fluids and even electric shocks.

But probably the most remarkable of all methods of evading the enemy is that of shamming death; and one need not necessarily travel beyond the confines of one's own garden for proof of the fact that some creatures do sham death, for quite a number of caterpillars, spiders, toads and snakes are addicted to the habit, says M. D. D. in the Times of India Illustrated Weekly.

It is a well-known fact that certain birds will pretend to be lame or wounded in the wing in order to draw away intruders from the vicinity of their eggs or young. The American ground dove, the duffered ground, the green plover and the wild duck are among those that practice this art of deception. Among birds that actually sham death may be mentioned the land rail and the water rail.

Blue Blood And Red

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Eddie Regan, once a member of a New York gang, has broken away and gone to Virginia, where he befriends Penfield Paradine, who dies and leaves all his possessions to Eddie. Eddie had been in love with Bernice Veressi, "gang girl," but all thought of her is lost when he meets and falls in love with Marian Thordike. Marian is engaged to Tom Freeman. Freeman and Eddie dislike each other, and Eddie, discouraged, goes to Richmond, where he meets Mike Arno, a former member of the gang, who tries to persuade him to return to New York and Bernice. Eddie refuses and returns to his farm. He goes to dinner at the Thordike home, and Mr. Thordike questions him as to his past. Bernice Veressi comes to Eddie's home and informs him she has come to stay. He tells her she cannot, but she throws herself into his arms.

Now Go On with the Story

CHAPTER XXXIX.
SHE drew back from him and pressed both her palms to his cheeks; held his face so that he gazed directly into the furnace of her eyes.

When she spoke her voice was mellow.

"You're mine, Eddie."

With an effort as mighty as the effort of Man arising in spirit and throwing off the cosmic weight of jungle heritage, Eddie Regan, who dreamed not of his symbolic significance grew white around the lips and in one titanic moment, freed himself from the shackles of the flesh. The act, externally was no more than pushing Bernice Veressi away and stepping back himself. But his forehead was white with sweat.

"That ends it," he declared, his voice tight.

She stood apart from him breathing deeply, her breast rising and subsiding.

"You are killing me," she said, with difficulty.

"You'll have to get your things together and go."

"It's because you're not used to having me here—it is this damned country that makes you so cold." She breathed, like an animal at bay. "There's no room here for love. This house kills it! You are not yourself, Eddie—you have got like this old room—dead! It is not fair—there is no chance for us here! Come with me, darling—back home—where you belong."

The pallor of his lips had now spread to his face.

"No! I belong here and here I stay!"

"Won't you come back?" she pleaded.

"Never!"

She trembled all over pitifully. But her eyes were burnished, dry. The breath came through her nostrils, her mouth, with difficulty.

"Then I stay with you! Yes, I'll stay and bury myself, too. You think I'm only a city girl, eh? You don't know me, Eddie. When I was a little girl I came from the old country, and I know the ways of the ground—the way things grow. Give me a chance, Eddie, I'll plant the wine grapes and tend the vines for you. The meals on the table, I can cook. I've got money—a thousand dollars—I'll put it in your hands and you can buy the horse, the cows, what you need."

His heart turned in her favor with deep sorrow for her. It was as though she was battering herself to death against a stone cliff and he was helpless to stay her.

"You are a great girl, Bernice—you must get hold of yourself. You are excited, saying a lot of things you don't mean, but you're not facing facts. Some day you'll run across the right guy and you'll thank me for saving you from big mistakes. Sit down for a minute and calm yourself."

She sank into a chair and looked at him. Unexpectedly, her passion veered.

"Who is your girl—what is she like?"

"No girl has anything to do with this," he told her, trying to be exact. "It's simply a case of us not being meant. You've sold yourself on a wrong idea, that's all. All this love you're trying to give me belongs to some guy even if you haven't met him yet. I can't accept what isn't mine."

"This girl—is it because she keeps holding you off that you want her so much?"

"I won't talk to you about any other girl," he insisted. "This is a matter that concerns only you and me. I hate to hurt you, Bernice, but you've got to get yourself together, you've got to go."

"You mean I got to go now?"

"Now!"

Her face was a white as his own; from somewhere she had regained her gloves and they were twisted in her hands. Suddenly, she smiled.

"You see what a fool I am, Eddie—I ought to be jealous, but I'm not thinking about that angle of it in the least. Sure, I know you can't fall or love me."

"—any fellow might—that's nothing against me or you, not even against the girl. I wipe all that stuff out—what's left is just something that was there in the beginning. I'm still crazy about you and I don't in the least care what you say. Let's go. You say I'm making a big mistake, but it seems to me, Eddie, that you are one in the dark; you are not yourself. The old Eddie that used to be would laugh at you now, trying to be farmer and breaking his heart over some country girl. Maybe she wears cotton stockings. I don't know. You need me—but you don't understand it yet."

"I want you to go, Bernice," he urged her. "I'm not sure at you or anything. You can't stay here any longer."

She looked at the two leather grips in the room.

"All right, Eddie, I'll go. But I'll not go back to New York. I'll stay in the little town where I got off the railroad then I'll be near you all the time. When you want me I'll be right there, Eddie."

It seemed unnecessarily harsh to send Bernice away from his house so abruptly, without even giving her a meal, but Eddie was on pins and needles until he could get rid of her.

Any explanation of her presence to Marian would, he was certain, sound hollow. In New York among more sophisticated people, the situation might be understood at its true value—but not here. So far as Marian's father was concerned, it would end everything.

And even when he got Bernice out of the house—even then he had to face added complications. If she remained a visitor, as she threatened, in the county seat, her presence would invariably stir wide attention and gossip. A girl of Bernice's type in the old-fashioned community would set all tongues wagging. She was too vivid, too conspicuous to escape notice. She would hang over him with suspended menace. People would learn about her, who she was and where she came from and her infatuation with him. Bit by bit the past would be revealed and scandal would scorch him with leaping flames.

In anguishing nervousness, he realized, that sooner or later, he would have to explain all of this to the Thordikes. No—they probably wouldn't even let him explain. He faced Bernice desperately.

"Do you want to ruin me?" he demanded. "You say you care about me, yet you're going to do the one thing that will put me in a wrong light before the whole county."

"But I'm leaving, Eddie," she protested. "I'm not going to stay in your house."

CLOGGED EAR CANAL IS EASILY CLEARED

Dr. Copeland Warns Against the Practice of Inserting Things Into the Ear, for It Is the Most Common Cause of Wax Deafness.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

TO HAVE anything interfere with the hearing is disagreeable indeed. Usually deafness is a matter of very slow progress. Sometimes, however, like a clap of thunder, there comes on sudden deafness.

DR. COPELAND

The most common cause for this experience is the movement of a plug of wax into a new position. This wax has been accumulating for months, perhaps for a year or more.

A bath may permit the admission to the ear canal of just enough water to displace the mass. Or the water softens the edges of the ball of wax and the detached material may fill in the limited space.

The deafness that comes so suddenly may disappear just as quickly. Efforts at relief by poking the ear with the little finger may be successful. The wax is moved away from the ear canal, or turned just enough to permit the sound waves to get past it.

It is rare for such an accumulation of wax to take place. It is safe to say that it never will take place if you do not fuss with the ears. Many persons practice the bad habit of inserting into the ear canal, a toothpick, hairpin, or even the end of a repeated day after day, there gradually grows up a ball of wax of considerable size.

Many times I have said, in jest, of course, that nothing should be put in the ear except the point of the ear. It is a mistake to use any instrument in an attempt to clean the ear. Let it to itself, the wax will carry itself out of the ear.

If you suspect that there is more wax than should be, let your doctor use the syringe, washing it out with water. It may be necessary to apply a little olive oil to soften the mass. The next day it can be removed with water and without pain.

Should it happen that the mass almost fills the canal, the oil will fill up this passage-way and increase the deafness. This will disappear when the water causes the plug to move away, clearing the passage.

Many a person is going about with impaired hearing from this cause. When the deafness can be overcome so easily it is a pity to endure it.

MRS. LIZZIE PRESTON.

"For years I suffered with stomach trouble and rheumatism," said Mrs. Lizzie Preston, 1020 Gest Street, Cincinnati, Ohio. "Every meal caused great distress. I lost weight and strength and was run-down in general. Rheumatism settled in the joints of my body. My system must have been saturated with poisons and impurities that were not properly carried off. I had read and heard a lot about Konjola and decided to give it a chance. Just as I was told it would do, Konjola went to the source of my ailments. My kidneys, stomach and liver were stimulated, and as the poisons were driven out I could feel the rheumatism leaving me. Konjola is little short of miraculous and it has my sincerest indorsement."

A color scheme of yellow and white, almost identical with that used for the wedding, was repeated at the dinner at which guests were seated at one large table and several small tables.

Place cards of yellow and white, directed the guests to their chairs, and the center piece of the large table was a great cake baked by Mrs. W. J. Weaver. The flowers used on the tables were white gladioli and yellow chrysanthemums.

"The bride wore a beautiful gown of white crepe-de-chine built over silk and carried bride's roses. "Mary Weaver, the little sister of the bride, gowned in white and bearing a basket of yellow roses was flower maid and preceded the bride.

"Mrs. Charles Hay played Mendelssohn's wedding march and Miss Amy Brinker sang, "Ask What Thou Wilt."

"It was a yellow and white wedding and the decorations throughout the house were yellow and white chrysanthemums.

"A wedding supper was served to 75 guests the bridal table being exquisite in its appointments. The center piece was white chrysanthemums and around it were many candles shaded in yellow. From the ceiling came festoons of yellow ribbons.

"Mr. Marion is the son of N. C. Marion, Fairfield-co., and the many friends of the young couple, manifested their esteem in most beautiful gifts.

"After a visit to St. Louis and the fair, Mr. and Mrs. Marion will return to Walnut-twp. and make their home with the bride's father.

"Among the guests were: M. T. Brinker, Mrs. Mamie Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. WORK STARTS ON "AUNT LUCIA," COMEDY TO BE STAGED BY C. A. C.

Local Talent Assigned to Principal Parts in Production Scheduled for October 31 and November 1 - Male Chorus and Pageant Will be Features

On Thursday and Friday nights, Oct. 31, and Nov. 1, the rollicking collegiate comedy "Aunt Lucia" will be staged at the Grand theatre by the Circleville Athletic club.

More than 100 local persons will take part in what promises to be one of the biggest home talent shows ever staged here.

This show has been staged in most of the principal towns in Ohio and has always been a big success and people who have seen it elsewhere proclaim it a show no one can afford to miss.

The play proper deals with the home-coming of Bula Bula college which is given in the honor of Lucia Wakefield, a rich old maid who has donated large sums of money to the college and this year the school expects her to give half a million for the new football stadium.

One of the college men (Chas. Goeller) just for the amusement of the gang, dresses up in an old lady dress. The faculty comes in and he is mistaken for Aunt Lucia. His pals (Carl Wallace and Jack Heater) try their best to get him out of the predicament. And the fun begins!

The Butter and Egg man from Omaha (Williams Pickets) and one of the boys' father (Joe Lynch) and old Professor Gaddis (Paul Kerwin) all fall in love with the fake Aunt and try to propose. The mixup caused by the burlesque causes a continuous scream of laughter.

The comedy freshmen parts are taken by Jimmie Brown and Evan Phillips. Miss Margaret Hunsicker as the Dean of Women and Esther Drum, Peggy Courtright and Mary Mae Haswell as the college girls add pep to the show. Paul Wallace as the yell leader, Mack Mader as the fraternity president all play important parts.

Judge E. A. Brown will introduce the Male Flapper Chorus which consists of the prominent business men of the town. There will be a chorus of male voices composed of the singers around town and Karl Kermann will direct this part of the show. Besides this there are 25 girls who will furnish the dancing numbers in special costumes.

Then there will be a pageant of the children from the first three grades in the schools.

The committees working are: Tickets, Joe Burns; Pageant, Mrs. Harvey Swoyer; Publicity, Nelson Swoyer; Cast, Ed. Ebert and Joe Lynch.

The Universal Producing Co. is producing the play. Miss Elma Lightner is in town to direct the rehearsals.

AS the sun lifted itself above the horizon on the morning of October 21, 1879 . . . penetrated the gray shadows that hemmed the mantle of night . . . transformed bleak space into natural living colors . . . little did the world realize that this sun smiled benignantly down upon a building wherein a new light was to be born that day.

This new light was destined not only to prolong day . . . revolutionize and even create new industries . . . change the living habits of the world . . . but to immortalize the man who created it—Thomas Alva Edison.

THIS year marks the fiftieth anniversary of Mr Edison's great invention. A half century has passed since the glow from the first practical incandescent electric lamp made possible a world flooded with light at the flip of a finger on a switch.

In Light's Golden Jubilee a grateful people finds opportunity to pay tribute to the father of many human comforts. For Light's Golden Jubilee brings to Edison the greatest tribute ever paid a living man.

On the fiftieth birthday of modern electric lighting, let us express our gratitude to Thomas Alva Edison.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hosts At Dinner On Silver Anniversary

The dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marion on Sunday, Oct. 20, celebrated the anniversary of their marriage which took place on Thursday, Oct. 20, 1904, 25 years ago. A color scheme of yellow and white, almost identical with that used for the wedding, was repeated at the dinner at which guests were seated at one large table and several small tables.

Place cards of yellow and white, directed the guests to their chairs, and the center piece of the large table was a great cake, baked by Mrs. W. J. Weaver. The flowers used on the tables were white gladioli and yellow chrysanthemums.

Among the guests were several names, of those who attended the wedding a quarter of a century ago, which is described in the following excerpt from the Circleville Union-Herald of Oct. 27, 1904.

"The nuptials of Miss Edith Weaver, daughter of Mr. A. E. Weaver of Walnut-twp, and Mr. Walter J. Marion was celebrated Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's father.

"The beautiful service of the Methodist Episcopal church was read by Mr. Rev. Evans and the bridal party was grouped under a grill work of yellow satin ribbons and in a grove of chrysanthemums.

"Two little ribbon bearers, Helen Weaver and Lillian Marion in dainty frocks of white swiss carried broad white satin ribbons and formed an aisle through which came the bride on the arm of her father, who gave her to the awaiting bridegroom.

"The bride wore a beautiful gown of white crepe-de-chine built over silk and carried bride's roses. "Mary Weaver, the little sister of the bride, gown in white swiss and bearing a basket of yellow roses was flower maid and preceded the bride.

"Mrs. Charles Hay played Mendelssohn's wedding march and Miss Amy Brinker sang, 'Ask What Thou Wilt.' "It was a yellow and white wedding and the decorations throughout the house were yellow and white chrysanthemums.

"A wedding supper was served to 75 guests the bridal table being exquisite in its appointments. The center piece was white chrysanthemums and around it were many candles shaded in yellow. From the ceiling came festoons of yellow ribbons.

"Mr. Marion is the son of N. C. Marion, Fairfield-co., and the many friends of the young couple, manifested their esteem in most beautiful gifts.

"After a visit to St. Louis and the fair, Mr. and Mrs. Marion will return to Walnut-twp and make their home with the bride's father.

"Among the guests were: Mr. T. Brinker, Mrs. Mamie Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Marion, Dr. and Mrs. Elmer Oman, of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Miesse, Lancaster; Miss Jessie Richardson, Chillicothe; Mr. and Mrs. C. F.
